Preliminary In-depth Congress View

As the abstract submission for the 22nd EUSUHM congress date opens, president Dr. Gabriele Ellsäßer gladly announces that two speakers from WHO Dr. Susanne Carai and Dr. Valentina Baltag will be lecturing on the leading topic Sustainable Health in Children and Students. The experts will share proven strategies, including the field of School Health Services, to reduce the gap. Furthermore, as we know that early interventions are highly effective, the President of the German Social Pediatric Society, Prof. Heidrun Thaiss, will highlight the potential of early prevention by addressing the question, “Is the Early Bird Catching the Worm?”

As previously announced, the event will take place between the 3rd and 5th of October 2024. For detailed information on the preliminary programme, please visit our congress website.

Abstract Submission

As the goal for the upcoming congress is to unfold leading social topics, EUSUHM will focus on the impact of digital media on children's health, and also assess the utility of digital psychosocial interventions on adolescents' mental health. This specific plenary session will be led by international experts from Finland, Germany together with WHO.

You are kindly invited to enrich the programme, especially the parallel sessions and the numerous interactive rooms (workshops) by showcasing your scientific work, models of good practice, and case reports with takeaway messages through abstract submission.
